Stevens Announces Intent To Acquire Printing Industry Supplier

FORT WORTH, August 31, 2007 -- Stevens Technology, the 56-year-old printing press manufacturer based in Fort Worth, Texas, has signed a letter of understanding to acquire a supplier to the printing and manufacturing industries. With three decades of experience, the company has an extensive reservoir of printing press industry knowledge.

“We at Stevens are very excited about the acquisition. It gives us major in-house machining and manufacturing capacity and allows us to provide an enhanced rapid-response parts inventory for our customers’ urgent needs,” said Richard Stevens, President of Stevens Technology.

Stevens continued, “The acquisition will vastly increase our manufacturing capacity, our sales volume and our customer base, and will significantly improve our ability to efficiently and rapidly serve our existing customers.”

Stevens Technology, LLC designs, manufactures, markets and services web-fed packaging and printing systems and related equipment for its customers in the packaging industry and the specialty/commercial segment of the printing industry. The company has designed a new line of presses, the System 6000, to augment its historic printing and packaging press lines.
